

The Woodrow Wilson HistoryQuest Fellowship

Inquiry-based learning experience for American history teachers, grades 6–12—expenses paid.

The WW HistoryQuest Fellowship uses the power of games, play, and digital tools to transform both teacher practice and student engagement. This professional development opportunity will ready you and your students to interact with American history in a new way.

Summer workshop, yearlong resources

The WW HistoryQuest Fellows cohort will take part in a five-day summer workshop focusing on creating engaging and educational history learning experiences. The workshop will be held July 26–31, 2020 in Princeton, New Jersey and includes single-occupancy housing and meals at no cost to the fellow. Professional development credits are available and resources will continue to be available to fellows after the workshop.

Apply online by February 19, 2020

Applicants will be required to complete the online application and submit a series of supplemental items including a letter of recommendation, a resume, and an unofficial transcript.

Middle and high school American history teachers working in CT, DE, MA, NJ, NY, and PA are welcome to apply. If you are a teacher in another state and are interested in the program, please email historyquest@woodrow.org.
